Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

"I believe that nearly 50 percent of the time spent here by about half the applicants who come to this office with applications for various kinds of rationed articles, could be saved, to say nothing of the time of the clerks in this office, if these people would read more of the simple rules for procedure and action on their requests," said Tolen E. Brown, head clerk of one division of the Fayette County Ration Board when I dropped into the office yesterday.

Brown said that nearly all who come to the board for help are courteous and reasonable even though most of them may not get as much of anything as they think they need, but the main difficulty is the complete ignorance of the board's necessary procedure. "Much of this is due to failure on the part of people either to read the instructions which repeatedly have been published in the Record-Herald and in other newspapers, as well as on the blanks issued to applicants and posters on the walls of our office," Brown continued. "In many cases, regardless of the hundreds of printed columns of instructions and all the experience of the past, we have to start from the beginning with many people and practically lead them step by step through every move they are required to make. It's almost like going over the A. B. Cs with some of them. However it is our business to be patient, no matter how trying some of these cases are, and we all here endeavor to do everything we can to help each and every one because, after all, this is something new for the people of this country and most of them find it hard to get used to it."

Incidentally Brown and the other clerks of the board have proven not only capable but kindly and courteous with all comers. In spite of some individuals who get very indignant when the board's rules make it necessary to refuse some of their requests, these clerks never lose their heads, but remain courteous. Occasionally they deserve a medal for taking what they have to take from some people.

I understand there is more music that tickles the fancy of frog hunters, along Compton and North Fork creeks at the present time than there has been since the early days when there was little to disturb the deep-throated, bass singers along those two favored streams. It is all due to the fact that during the last two or three years tens of thousands of bullfrogs have been distributed in the streams, and some of the frogs are beginning to reach an age when they lift up their voices and bay at the moon, or just sing bass in the darkness because they love to sing to their lady friends elsewhere along the stream.

By next year the chorus will be so great that one may hear it a mile or more from the streams, providing the bass singers thrive and develop as they are expected to in the meantime.

OHIO LIQUOR RATION TIP IS NOW GIVEN

Pint Every Two Weeks Is Indicated by Plans

COLUMBUS, May 21.—(AP)—In preparation for the June 1 package liquor rationing program, the State Liquor Department is pressing distillers for the maximum available quantity of cases of pints. Director Don A. Fisher said today.

"The pint is the ideal bottle size for rationing," Fisher explained. "We have been able to get a substantial volume of our liquor in pints and are seeking more."

Unofficial sources predict that the initial ration allowance will be one pint per person over a two-week period.

CAPITAL NEWS IS TOPPED BY ATTU CONQUEST

Trap Is Being Tightened On Japs on Aleutian Bases, Reports Indicate

OTHER PROBLEMS ARISE

Gasoline Shortage Menaces Food Production as Labor Disputes Grow Serious

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP) Developments in the North Pacific battle topped the capital news today. The Japanese base on Kiska island in the Aleutians was threatened with complete blockade by the imminent collapse of enemy resistance on Attu—a collapse which authorities here said could come in a matter of hours.

At home, Washington concerned itself over activity within labor circles, gas and liquor shortages and tax and other money matters.

For the average person, at least in the east, the prospect of doing more walking now or less eating later loomed as a growing gasoline shortage threatened food production in several seaboard states and turned speculative federal eyes on the T-rations of commercial transportation vehicles.

Despite pleasure driving bans and other measures, the "all-time low" in eastern supplies appeared to be growing worse instead of better, aggravated by midwestern flood damage to a main oil supply line from the southwest.

Tractors were halted on thousands of farms, many filling stations closed, and after the war food administration declared that unless quick relief was found some farm lands would not be planted this year, high government sources said the next step probably would be reduction of gasoline used by commercial vehicles—such as trucks, taxis and buses.

Another shortage appeared unlikely of immediate relief—liquor. War production board officials said that, despite pressure from liquor retailing groups for resumption of some whiskey production, no steps to ease the liquor drought could be expected immediately. By then, they said, it may be possible to tell whether distillers who now produce only war vital industrial alcohol can devote part of their output to beverage alcohol.

On Capitol Hill, a compromise on tax abatement ranging between 50 and 75 percent of a year's levies was predicted by some members as a joint conference committee sat down for its second attempt to unravel the house-senate snarl over pay-as-you-go revenue legislation.

At the same time, the treasury was all set to start current collection of income taxes if congress could agree on a bill acceptable to the president. Both the bills approved by the two houses call for a withholding tax, and there were indications that the two delegations were somewhat nearer agreement today.

After chalking up two new appropriations records, the house began debate on its third supply bill in two days, a measure carrying additional billions for lend-lease aid. Its appropriations committee simultaneously tackled a presidential request for $59,425,586,500 for the war department. Yesterday the house set a precedent by disposing of

Lewis Seeks Political Power By Return to AFL, Is Belief

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The expected "homecoming" of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers to the American Federation of Labor foreshadows the early retirement of President William Green, competent observers of labor politics predicted today.

United Mine Workers officials announced today that Lewis, the UMW president, would go to Washington during the day and that headquarters of the union in New York would be closed immediately.

There was no immediate explanation of the move nor was there any indication that Lewis' trip to Washington meant that he might have agreed to consult with the War Labor Board which he has ignored since the soft coal wage dispute was referred to it several weeks ago.

Two collateral effects also were foreseen:

A blow to the aspirations of secretary-treas. George Meany to attain the AFL presidency, and the possible election of Lewis himself to that office.

Lewis is not heading back to the AFL to be a second-stringer, labor circles agree. He is expected to be out front from the very beginning. He has some scores to settle with Green. More than any other individual, he helped Green into the AFL presidency. Green was a miner. But when Lewis organized the CIO, Green stood with the Federation for the suspension of the miners and the other unions allied with them in the new organizing venture.

Lewis' only way to retaliate then was to get Green expelled from the United Mine Workers, which he did promptly. This left Green in an embarrassing position, until the Musicians' Union came along with an honorary membership for him. Since then, he and Lewis have exchanged some harsh words.

Lewis forgets like an elephant. His time may come in October, when the annual federation convention and election takes place.

Socialite Convicted Of 'Passion' Killing

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 21.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Aileen Randle, 31-year-old wife of a wealthy Washington and Annapolis sportsman, was under conviction of manslaughter today for the fatal shooting of Allen Willey, 17, in a case which her attorney said was "replete with passion."

Mrs. Randle was found guilty last night by an all-male jury which deliberated for two hours and a quarter after hearing the attractive third wife of Ulmo S. Randle, 34, tearfully deny she had intentionally fired the shot

Rampaging Rivers of Midwest Continue To Spread Over Rich Farm Lands as Smaller Streams Pour Floods in; Destruction Increases Over Wide Area

(By The Associated Press)

Spreading waters from the rampaging Mississippi and Missouri rivers brought added concern to southern Illinois and Missouri today as other smaller streams in six Mid-west states rose relentlessly, causing further widespread destruction in the flood-stricken zone.

As the two big rivers joined early today some 10 miles northwest of the normal confluence near Alton, Ill., the number of persons driven from their homes by the disastrous floods was close to 100,000—as estimated by Red Cross officials and other observers.

Hundreds of civilian recruits—including high school boys and girls in some towns—labored throughout the night in towns regarded as in imminent danger, aiding engineers and soldiers in the struggle of holding back the surging waters.

The Red Cross office at St. Louis said that in Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma, more than 80,000 were homeless, while in Indiana official and unofficial observers estimated 12,000 were forced to flee. The number left homeless in Kansas, the sixth state affected by the flood, was not calculated.

Farm Loss Heavy

While thousands of acres of farm lands were inundated in the six states and damage to crops was estimated at millions of dollars, there was a degree of optimism concerning the situation expressed by crop experts in Chicago.

They said the most serious aspect of the flood as it applied to the nation's food supply concerned corn, planting of which has been delayed by the floods. But, they said, it was considered possible that this loss of time would be made up by warm, sunny weather during the summer. They added that in the big crop area a late spring had delayed corn planting one or two weeks, before farm lands were inundated. They also said that the danger exists in the fact that autumn frosts may kill the crop before it is matured, because of the late plantings.

A loss of between 5 and 15 percent of the oats crop in some states was indicated, the experts said, but they added that winter wheat in much of the southwest had not been touched by rain.

Levees Collapsing

Late last night the Missouri River broke through weakened points along the channel and rushed northward across country in eastern St. Charles County (Mo.) to meet the overflow of the

State Auditor on Griddle As Adjournment Next Week Hoped For

COLUMBUS, May 21.—(AP)—Frank E. Whittemore, majority leader in the Ohio senate, expressed doubt today the upper chamber could complete work by May 28 as recommended by house Republicans.

Rep. William H. Deddens, house majority leader, introduced a resolution yesterday calling for the legislature to conclude its business by May 28 and adjourn sine die June 8.

"Hope we can, but it is doubtful," said Whittemore of the proposal.

Deddens introduced his resolution after the senate finance committee recommended passage of the house-approved biennial appropriation bill, major business item on the assembly's calendar.

The senate was expected to take up the appropriation measure Tuesday. Following passage, it must be returned to the house for concurrence in amendments.

The bill appropriates $386,706,328 for 1943-44 operations. The amount is $1,020,593 under the sum requested by the governor's office, although the senate finance committee added $2,245,686 to the total approved by the house.

The increases included $400,000 each for state parks and purchase of the buildings occupied by the bureau of unemployment compensation here; $285,000 for post-war construction of a new science building at Wilberforce University; $250,000 more for state and local civilian defense, and $218,000 to increase pay of the Ohio state guard.

Also coming up for action next week is a resolution asking State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to submit to the house a sworn statement "of the gross amounts received by him or his agent from assessments upon civil service employees" from 1941-43.

Jap Who Boasted He Would Dictate Peace in White House Is Now Dead

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—The Tokyo radio announced today that Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto, commander in chief of the combined Japanese fleet, who boasted he would dictate peace terms in the White House, was killed "on the very front lines of the south" while directing operations against Allied naval forces from an airplane.

AERIAL ASSAULT CONTINUES ON HITLER'S EUROPE

Nazi War Factories and Transportation System Hit Again by RAF

DAM ON SARDINIA BLASTED

Yanks Put Death Squeeze On Japs in Aleutians And Reds Stop Nazis

By ROGER GREENE

(By The Associated Press)

American fliers were officially credited today with ringing up a spectacular toll of 113 enemy planes destroyed in "softening up" attacks on Italy and her island outposts yesterday, while swift U. S. fighter-bombers dropped explosives on a dam in north-west Sardinia.

The raid on the Sardinian water barrier further exploited a new line of attack inaugurated last Sunday when RAF bombers shattered Germany's huge Moehne and Eder dams in the Ruhr, spreading a vast trail of death and havoc among Hitler's war industries.

A sleep-torturing "war of nerves" between London and Berlin, involving populations of 13,000,000, appeared under way today in a new phase of the great air struggle over Europe.

Meanwhile, the American forces on Attu were not only completing the successful conquest of that desolate Aleutian island but also were tightening the trap on the Japs left on Kiska Island, while the Russians were smashing renewed German attempts to get their drive underway in the Caucasus and blasted troop-laden Nazi barges trying to reach Novorossisk.

For the second successive night—the fifth since May 13—speedy RAF Mosquito bombers jabbed at Berlin, while London underwent its fifth straight after-dark alarm. No bombs fell on the British capital, however, and the German high command reported only "ineffective nuisance attacks" over the Reich without mentioning the thrust at Berlin.

Other RAF bombers and fighters, carrying the Allied aerial offensive against the continent into its ninth night in a row, struck at Nazi war foundries, trains, barges, canal jetties and motor transport in occupied France and Germany and laid mines in enemy waters.

Among the targets announced by the British Air Ministry were the German U-boat base at Bremen and the munitions center of Essen, home of the giant Krupps works.

On the invasion-jittery southern flank of Hitler's Europe, U. S. Flying Fortresses delivered a fiery assault on the Italian air-drome at Grosseto, 90 miles north of Rome, and other Allied planes attacked stepping-stone islands in the Mediterranean including Sardinia and Pantelleria.

With a loss of only one aircraft, Allied fliers based in North Africa destroyed 14 Axis fighters in combat and shot down a formation of seven heavy Messerschmitt-323 transports, each capable of carrying 120 persons, in widespread "softening up" forays.

In addition Allied headquarters announced, large numbers of Axis planes were smashed on the ground.

Allied headquarters in North Africa announced that American fighters and bombers alone destroyed 113 Axis planes yesterday in widespread sweeps marking "one of the greatest victory days in the history of the strategic air force."

With a loss of one Allied plane, 91 enemy aircraft were destroyed on the ground and 22 in furious sky fighting. Seven of the victims were huge German Messerschmitt-323 transports, each capable of carrying 120 persons.

THREE SCHOOLS HOLD ANNUAL COMMENCEMENT

Total of 52 Graduates
Receive Diplomas
At Services

High school days today were just pleasant memories for 30 girls and 22 boys who were graduated from three Fayette County high schools Thursday night in commencement exercises that, because of the war, were unlike any for several years. Eight girls and nine boys will join them from the Bloomingburg school Friday night.

JEFFERSONVILLE

The biggest graduating class in the system was at Jeffersonville, where Dr. Floyd Faust, pastor of the Broad Street Christian Church in Columbus, pointed out the pitfalls that lie ahead of the 18 girls and 10 boys and cautioned the proud parents and relatives in the audience that their help and guidance would be needed by these young people.

The class, the girls in white caps and gowns and the boys in blue, marched from the back of the high school auditorium down the center aisle to the strains of the processional "Pomp and Circumstance," played by the band, to take their places on the stage, across the front of which were huge baskets of spring flowers. Following the class, came the members of the faculty who took their seats behind them on the stage. The ensemble was brought on freshly against the background of amber, green and orchid twisted streamers, the class colors.

Rev. W. S. Alexander delivered the invocation at the opening of the solemn occasion.

The diplomas were presented to members of the class, as they stepped to the front of the stage as their names were called, by the superintendent, Carl M. Boring. He also presented the honor awards to Lowell Willis, the class president, first; Marvin DeMent, second; and Martha Straley, third. The first award included a scholarship at Wilmington College, valued at $350. Supt. Boring also announced the results of the state tests and congratulated the entire class on its achievements. Edward Tarlton, was hailed by the superintendent as the champion, with second honors going to Lowell Willis and third to Marvin DeMent.

The band, seated in the front rows of seats, played four numbers under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Dunkle during the program and, after Rev. E. R. Rector had pronounced the benediction, played the "Star Spangled Banner."

MADISON MILLS

A capacity audience filled the auditorium, Thursday night, for the annual commencement exercises of the Madison Township Schools at Madison Mills, and heard Attorney F. J. Collopy, president of the Columbus Bar Association, deliver an excellent address in which he stressed the importance of being congenial with the public generally, and the necessity of being able to get along with people to insure success in life.

To Ruth Evelyn Kelly went top honors in the class, with a four year scholarship in Wilmington College as one of the rewards. Georgianna Hott ranked second, and receives a four year scholarship in Cedarville College. The honors were awarded by Miss Mary A. Borden.

Supt. Kenneth Craig distributed the diplomas.

The Triple Trio of the school, sang "Love's Old Sweet Song," and Miss Eleanor Paul, Washington C. H., sang "Italian Street Song."

The program closed with music by the Senior Girls. Rev. J. H. Baughn offered prayer and pronounced the benediction.

The stage was attractively decorated with spring flowers and ferns, and the class motto "Today We Follow, but Lead Tomorrow" was carried on a banner over the stage.

WAYNE TOWNSHIP HIGH

Rev. R. Wobus, of Sidney, choosing for his subject the class motto "We Have Crossed the Bay, the Ocean Lies Ahead," delivered a strong address to the graduates of Wayne Township High School at the annual commencement exercises.

In his address Rev. Wobus pointed out many of the problems to be met and solved by the graduates in the larger life ahead, and gave them many helpful suggestions toward success.

The High School Orchestra and mixed chorus, under direction of Supt. E. LaMar Hoke, furnished several numbers for the program, all of which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Supt. Hoke also presented the diplomas to the graduates, and Mrs. Ruby Fountain presented the certificates to the eighth graders.

First honors went to Willa Jane Sollars and second to Wendel Hoppes.

In the Eighth graders, Billy Palmer and Byron Hoke held first place.

The movement of German self-propelled barges across the Black Sea and attempts of a Nazi infantry force to fight its way through the Russian attack are northeast of Novorossisk have been smashed by Soviet artillery and planes, reports from the front said today.

The Soviet midnight communiqué said ships of the Red fleet and planes patrolling the Black Sea sank six of the enemy barges, filled with troops, near Kerch.

There was no immediate indication whether the boats were attempting to bring more reinforcements to the Axis troops now compressed into four districts in the Taman peninsula, or whether this marked the beginning of an Axis attempt at an evacuation.

Four German infantry regiments attempted to storm the Red lines northwest of Novorossisk after laying down a heavy barrage, but were met with volleys of Soviet gunfire, the midnight war bulletin said, and thrown back with heavy losses.

In one sector, a Russian unit was hit on the flanks by superior enemy forces. The right flank managed to hold, but on the left flank the Germans were reported to have come on until the Red army were fighting them off with fists, bayonets and point-blank pistol fire.

Reinforcements which moved in swiftly under cover of night arrived in time to turn the tide of battle, front advisers said.

An Axis-controlled Vichy broadcast reported today trapped Japanese forces "have begun to evacuate Attu" in the 11-day-old battle of the Aleutians, but American warships were believed standing guard to blast any attempt to escape by sea.

Washington quarters declared collapse of Japanese resistance was imminent—perhaps only a matter of hours—as survivors of the hard-hit enemy garrison were tightly bottled up at Chicheagof harbor at the northeast tip of the island.

ALBERS MARKET

Bicycles Abandoned and Truck Is Stolen at
Co-Op Plant

Boys are suspected of burglarizing the Albers Market on Hinde Street, Thursday night; of abandoning two bicycles in the rear of the Post Office and stealing a truck at the Co-Op plant on West Market Street.

Entrance to Albers' was gained by breaking two window glass. The first one was barred by boards inside, but the one higher up permitted one of the pair to crawl through.

About 400 cigarettes were stolen. Nothing else was missed.

Two bicycles were found abandoned under the steps at the rear of the Post Office 100 feet from the spot where entrance was forced at a side window.

The truck a 1 1/2 ton Chevrolet, was taken from the parking lot at the Co-Op station on West Market Street, and not missed until late Friday forenoon.

Police are investigating and the bicycles are expected to aid in solving the crime.

SENIOR CHAPEL BRINGS CLASS NEARER FINALE

Traditional Assembly Is Held Following Class Breakfast at WHS

* Ninety-six Washington C. H. High School seniors today are on the last lap of their high school careers. The annual assembly program, given by members of the class on their last day of school, was held in the WHS auditorium following the senior breakfast, also an annual event Thursday.

This year's graduating class of 45 boys and 52 girls is smaller than last year's, which had 134 members, the largest class in WHS history. Ninety-seven will receive their diplomas next Friday night, May 28, when the annual commencement ceremonies are held. James Gage, one of the members of the class, will not be present to receive his diploma, having enlisted in the U. S. Coast Guard several weeks ago.

The assembly Thursday morning opened with the seniors marching down the aisles on each side while singing "Lead On, O King Eternal."

The students were led to their places by the president of the class, David Ellies and the vice-president, Ronald Morgan. Karl J. Kay was at the organ. After reaching their places they sang the Alma Mater. Donna Jean Chase gave the Bible reading and led the student body in prayer.

The vice president of the class of 1943, gave the address, a brief message to the class.

Following the address, an ensemble, consisting of Annalee Reser, Rosemary Dennison, Eleanor Paul, Jane Bryant, Elda Jayne Mossbarger and Jean Everhart, sang two numbers with Joan Wilson accompanying them.

"The Snow Goose" by Paul Gallico, a radio drama, was then presented by a group of seniors, under the direction of Miss Sara L. Keck. The cast included: Cowl, Elda Jayne Mossbarger; Rhayader, Eugene Health; Firtha, Hilda Lee Evans; Private Potten, Gordon Lanum; Bandy, Robert Shoemaker; Smithers, Joe Tillet and the artilleryman, Dale Tool. Donald Riber played a musical background.

President Ellies presented the WHS service flag, a project of the class, to Frederic Carlson, the president of the junior class, who in turn spoke a few words of acceptance. Ellies also introduced Martha Looker, the secretary of the service flag project who has kept a record of the names for which stars are placed on the flag. In presenting the flag to Carlson, Ellies said he hoped "that this would be the last time for a president of a senior class in Washington C. H. High School to present a service flag to a junior class president."

A piano solo by Lois Cavinec was followed by another play. An adaptation of P. G. Wodehouse's book, "Uncle Fred Flits By," was made earlier this year by Patricia Nisley, a member of the graduating class, and the adaptation was given for the pleasure of the students. The cast was: A. Crumpet, David Ellies; a guest, Lloyd Fenning; Pongo, James Hidy; Lord Ickenham, Stanley Mark; Wilberforce Robinson, William Williams; Connie, Alice Lee Montgomery; Claude, Rollo Marchant, Jr.; Julie, Mary Ann Craig; Mr. Roddis, Arthur Paul and a maid, Martha Looker.

The assembly came to a fitting close for high school students with John Anderson's band, a group of seniors, playing three numbers for the enjoyment of the students, faculty and some guests who attended the assembly. The swing numbers were "Move It Over," "Rosie, the Riveter" and "One O'clock Jump." Others in the band besides John Anderson were Rollo Marchant, Jr., Robert Shoemaker, Dale Tool, Ronald Morgan and Loren Briggs. Stanley Mark did the vocals for the band in the song, "Rosie, the Riveter."

The officers for the class of 1943 are David Ellies, president; Ronald Morgan, vice president; Elizabeth Saum, secretary; Stanley Mark, treasurer, and Betty Robinson, editor of annual. The class advisor is Mrs. Susan Fite. The class flower is the Briar Cliff Rose and the colors are lilac and canary yellow. The motto is: "With Courage We Face the Years For Life and Love Live on."

The annual junior-senior dance will be held in the WHS gymnasium on Friday night with Ray Mund's orchestra of Columbus furnishing the music. The baccalaureate service will be held in the WHS auditorium Sunday afternoon at 4 P. M.

The annual class night exercises will be held Tuesday night in the auditorium and the customary dance following will be in the gymnasium with Eddie Kadel's band of Springfield furnishing the music.

Commencement exercises will be held next Friday night in the high school auditorium.

A REAL RECORD

Neither traveling nor shipping is what it used to be. Seats are hard to get, in Pullman or coach; meals are sketchy and often unappetizing; one is apt to get put out of the plane seat he engaged in advance. Freight and express are slow. Even air mail is not completely dependable.

Occasionally somebody grouches audibly about these hardships, but most of us take them in our stride because we realize that the nation's transportation facilities, passenger and commodity, are working miracles to give us even as good service as we have.

In World War I, with much more equipment and a smaller load, the railroads broke down completely; war plants closed for lack of coal, householders actually suffered, there were fuel riots, goods spoiled on piers, and freight yards became so hopelessly congested that cars containing war cargoes had to be lifted out by cranes.

None of those things are happening now. Discomforts—yes—and delays, but nothing that interferes with the war effort.

The Office of War Information has rounded up a picture of the current situation and has come to the conclusion that only as to oil and cummutation are the pressures acute.

There are about four major causes of the tremendous load which, with much less equipment than they had in 1918, the transportation agencies are handling so ably.

Our industrial program is many times that of World War I. This involves vastly greater movement of raw materials and finished goods, and also a concentration of employment that forces hundreds of thousands of workers to travel many miles daily, depending upon public utilities because of the gasoline and rubber shortages.

Gasoline and fuel oil were not so important in World War I.

Now our civilian economy is geared to them, and also our fighting strategy which depends upon planes, tanks, jeeps, trucks, self-propelled artillery. The tankers upon which the east depended now are needed to take fuel to the war fronts, so the railroads have had to assume that burden.

Troop movements are heavier. The average soldier is moved 10 times, including a post-induction furlough trip, before he is shipped abroad. To move a single division overnight requires 1342 cars of every type.

Many things about this war have been mismanaged. They do not include transportation. That job has been—and is being—done marvelously well.

MILITARY VS. CIVILIAN NEEDS

The primary objective today is to win the war. War production must come

Flashes of Life

Blood Hounds' Quarry Takes to Wood
ANGOLA, La.—Resident Physician James L. Smith of the state penitentiary hospital here volunteered to be "fox" in a simulated night-time man-hunt. Eight trainers and their dogs beat through the brush on his trail. At a road all dogs were stumped. The dog sergeants gave up too. They could find evidence of a stray cow but the man appeared to have disappeared in air. Dr. Smith was found fast asleep in his bed at the hospital. Awakened he explained he had taken to stilt at the point the hunt failed. The bottoms of his stilts were carved to resemble the hoofs of a cow.

Serve With a Hoe
TOPEKA, Kas.—Governor Schoeppel of Kansas is using part of the executive mansion's tennis court for his Victory garden and guest players are required to do a bit of hoeing.

2. Can you rearrange these titles according to rank—captain, commander, admiral, vice admiral, rear admiral?
3. What is a mandrake?

Hints on Etiquette

Don't apologize for the disorder of the house when friends drop in unexpectedly. Give them a warm welcome and ignore anything that is out of order. It always embarrasses people to hear such apologies, and probably any disorder will be entirely unnoticed if attention is not called to it.

Words of Wisdom

The esteem of wise and good men is the greatest of all temporal encouragements to virtue; and it is a mark of an abandoned spirit to have no regard to it.—Burke.

Today's Horoscope

A birthday on this date means that you are ambitious, unswerving in effort, but often given to impractical ideas. Develop originality and self-dependence. You have an artistic temperament which is reflected in the beauty of your home. In the quiet hours of the night, take a fresh view of the future and make a mental image of your blessings. Do not create a scene if you do not get prompt service today, or if a reckless person blocks your right of way. Silence will prevent a flare-up or accident. You may hear disturbing rumors about hoarding or sabotage. Try to trace them to their source.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. An appendix.
2. Admiral, vice admiral, rear admiral, captain, commander.
3. An herb.

first where it conflicts with civilian needs in the face of equipment, materials or manpower shortages. However, the war can be won only if a sound home-front is maintained at the same time.

That means production for essential needs must be maintained at such a level as to safeguard morale and health of those doing their bit for the war effort on the home front. In the strictest sense, therefore, military and essential civilian needs must be regarded on a par. The dividing line is not between them—but rather between essential and unessential civilian needs.

The Office of Price Administration has repeatedly granted price increases because, in its opinion, these were necessary to maintain war production at maximum level. Thus far it has refused to accept the same principle for the maintenance of most essential civilian production.

One curious idea, now in process of liquidation, is that there are two or three governments in this country.

Food Faddist Shown Up by Wartime Rationing

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WAR IS a realist. In the face of its cold, factual starve-auctions and eccentricities fade away. Since I have lived through the last six months of rationing, I have learned never to believe a food

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

faddist again. There are only two kinds—plain liars and gaudy liars.

Take the vegetarians. They would never touch meat. Man's digestive system was never made for meat. Besides meat is a poison, according to them. It brings on rheumatism, dimness of vision, lumbago, Bright's disease, high blood pressure. Give them the wholesome vegetables and fruits of the earth. Nuts—nuts contain all the food elements. Let us live on nuts.

Well, to say the least, they have not made many converts to judge from the mail of agony that went up the last week in March when the country discovered it couldn't get but just a little meat. I saw one vegetarian—I will admit he has been a partial vegetarian; he was more of a preaching than a practicing vegetarian, but still a vegetarian—I saw him during that fateful last week of March, staggering from a butcher store, both arms clutched around enormous bundles, from the wrapped ends of which protruded what was unmistakably meat, his face bathed in honest sweat, his eyes bugged out with a fierce resolve to get his prizes home and in the icebox before someone beat him to it.

Experiences With Coffee
The coffee prohibition crank too. The male, or more often female, who did not believe in stimulants in any form. Their preachments got drowned out in the mail that went up when we began to get only one cup of coffee a day.

I will say this about the coffee faddist. I believe from experience since last November that the pleasures of coffee are largely gustatory and olfactory. There is a kind of coffee made of roasted barley that has been just as satisfactory to me as the real thing.

Even this is directly contradictory to the faddist's idea that coffee is habit-forming. I broke off without a quail or a quiver. Nor have I noticed that I have slept any better since quitting coffee. But it must be admitted that there is one who is well acquainted with my habits who avers that I couldn't have slept any better than I did before, because my sleeping is calculated to make the seven gentlemen at Ephesus look like amateurs.

Man Carnivorous

The real facts about the food fads I have mentioned are that man's digestive tract is admirably adapted to meat eating, and that coffee is one of the best things a person from the age of 30 on can possibly use.

If a well-informed anatomist on Mars should fall heir to a human body for dissection, he would undoubtedly conclude that this was the structure of a carnivorous animal. The herbivorous animals, such as the rabbit, or cow, have an enormous length of intestine which is necessary for them to have enough absorptive surface to utilize their uneconomical type of food. This has shrunk in man to the little vermiform appendix.

And coffee increases the circulation of the blood through the heart and kidneys and brain, which is a help to those organs when they get to be over 50 years of age.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
D. V.: What is meant by the term "heart murmur"? What is it caused by and is it dangerous in a 14-year-old child?

Answer: Heart murmurs in most instances are caused by defects in the valves of the heart so that the stream of blood either goes the wrong way or is obstructed in its flow. People go a great many years with a heart murmur without discomfort or serious impairment of their health.

P. K. E.:—What brings on a cystic ovary? Does it grow larger? Would medical treatment in a hospital take care of this?

Answer: A cystic ovary is a form of new growth. It tends always to get larger. Sometimes they reach enormous sizes. Medical treatment is of no avail. It is one of the triumphs of modern life that surgery is safe and effective in these cases.

F. G.:—I would like your opinion about low blood pressure, accompanied by slow and irregular pulse. Do you consider this serious?

Answer: I do not consider low blood pressure itself serious, but what you say about the irregular pulse gives another aspect to the question and perhaps indicates that you should consult a physician.

SYNOPSIS

Notified that her brother, MELVIN MARSDEN is missing in action, JEAN MARSDEN, who has risen to the top as a fashion model, quits her job to become secretary to STEVE LANDIS, director of a new rubber plant in Mexico. Jean has an abrupt introduction to carfare, hand-some CURLEY, employed by MR. AND MRS. PARKINSON, owners of the Rancho Carolina.

YESTERDAY: Jean and Steve see the train bearing part of the secret rubber formula wrecked as it nears the town.

CHAPTER SEVEN

AS THE station wagon bumped and jolted over the shaly, rock-strewn slope between the highway and the railroad tracks, Jean suddenly screamed and pointed.

Through the dusk the figures of several men could be seen leaping from the overturned baggage car. The first one took a look at the station wagon approaching, then turned to run for a car parked some distance up the roadbed. The two others followed, one of them limping as he ran.

"Be careful!" Jean cried. For Steve was turning the car's searchlight full on the fleeing figures while he pushed the accelerator to the floor.

"Look, you've got the mail bag all right!" His face was white with fury, and Jean thought for one terrified instant he was going to smash the station wagon into the other car. But he glanced at her suddenly, as though remembering she was along. In the next breath he had slammed on the brakes, holding out his arm to keep her from going through the windshield with the violent jerk of the stop. Pulling on the emergency, he ordered, "Stay here!" and flung open the door.

"Steve!" she cried wildly. "Steve—don't!"

But he was gone, running toward the car into which the men were now piling. A shot rang out. Jean moaned and closed her eyes. But when they switched open again, Steve still was running, returning the saboteurs' fire as he went. Their car swerved ahead just as he reached it. With a long leap, he made the running board and clung there. As the car gathered speed, they pushed him off. His body rolled in a cloud of dust down the slope toward the tracks.

Jean, screaming, stumbling, was halfway to him before the bandits' car had reached the highway. She knelt beside him as he opened his eyes dizzily, then sat up.

"The rats!"

At the doxy belligerence on his face, Jean's terror abruptly was released into a hysterical laugh. She pulled him back when he started to rise. "Lie still a minute till we see if you're shot full of holes," she ordered.

"I'm all right."

Apparently he was, except for torn clothes, scratches, bruises and a badly sprained wrist.

"Going over to the train!" He still was panting. "Stay here."

But Jean's spirits were soaring with the excitement of it now that the nightmare of the first moments was over. "I won't stay here. I'm going with you," she cried.

The engine still was throbbing, steam pouring up through the dusky defile of the canyon as they made their way toward the overturned cars. Steve halted, and suddenly a head appeared over the edge of the open baggage car door. It was the Mexican engineer. He and Steve carried out the other victim—a Mexican trainman, bleeding and unconscious. They propped him on one of the station wagon seats and Steve supported him while Jean drove to the company shack that Steve shared with several of the plant engineers.

By the time she drew up before the lighted, shed-like building, the Mexican trainman had regained consciousness and was being violently sick. The engineer's face beside her was covered with blood. He was muttering Spanish oaths as he wiped it from his eyes with a ragged forearm. Jean's fastidious soul recoiled. She wanted to escape from the misery, blood and sickness. She told herself they didn't need her, and turned to tell Steve she was going to walk to the village. Then she had a sudden glimpse of Steve's jaw clamped tight with pain as he and the engineer lifted the trainman from the car.

"I don't know," Steve laughed. "That halo you're wearing is very becoming."

"Your wrist!" she cried, remembering. "Don't lift him!" She ran to the door of the shack and pounded on it. A tall, lanky engineer appeared in the lighted opening.

"What's the matter?" He peered at the disheveled mass of her hair, at her mussed, soiled white riding habit and then beyond to the station wagon.

"There's been a wreck," Jean shouted above the radio music inside the shack. "Help Mr. Landis!" She went into the shack to meet two plant engineers coming from sleeping rooms, and she heard her voice going on with clipped authority. "Help me fix this cot to put him on. And will you heat some water? Where are your first aid supplies?"

An hour later, Jean stepped back from the neat bandages she had wound around Steve's head and left arm. "There. Considering the handicap I was working under, I think that arm is pretty neat," she declared, passing a trembling, weary iodine-stained hand across her forehead.

Steve grinned guiltily. He hadn't been a good patient, having insisted on continuing with his phoning while he worked on his arm. He had been on the phone almost steadily, getting the police on the saboteurs' trail, tracking down the town's one doctor, and sending code wires to his company headquarters.

"Did I ever ask you how you'd stand up in an emergency?" he said. "Lady, you'll do. You've been bossing us around like a top sergeant AND getting results. Remind me to turn over the plant to you to manage." He whistled to the wispy little Mexican cook just setting a bowl of soup before the engineer. "Bring the senorita some of that, too, Concha. And a napkin."

Jean slowly rolled down the sleeves of her white silk shirt. Her gaze wandered about the room with a measure of pride in her accomplishments. The train engineer, bathed, disinfected and bandaged, was on a cot brought from one of the bedrooms, smacking his lips with loud contentment between each gurgling draught of soup. The other trainman was on the living room couch, a compress on his swelling bump on his head where he had been black-jacked, a makeshift splint on his broken hand until the doctor arrived. Steve's roommates still were hurrying about carrying out kettles and washbasins and sorting the first aid equipment.

"At last I managed to put that first aid course to some use." She slipped into her riding jacket and moved across to a mirror to straighten her hair and run a lipstick across her pale lips. She smiled a little ruefully at her reflection. "I'll bet," she murmured, throwing a quick smile, "that if I'd walk into your office NOW to ask for a job, you wouldn't consider me too beautiful to be useful."

"I don't know," Steve laughed skeptically as he poured hot water from his spoon of soup to scrutinize them, and Steve and Jean stifled chuckles at his bewilderment.

The doctor arrived, buzzing with excitement and curiosity. He was disappointed that there had been no shooting or stabbing. And then finally came Steve's long-awaited call from police headquarters.

"No trace of the car yet. They're covering all the main roads." Steve replaced the receiver with an awkward left hand, frowning his disappointment. "If the number plate only hadn't been covered up! The chief of police is leaving a lieutenant on the desk to get the reports, and coming out to question us."

Jean looked up from the table. "I'll stay until he goes, then."

But Steve, noticing her weary pallor, the listless stabs she was making at her soup, ordered Howard to take her home. "I think I saw everything you did. If he wants to question you personally, as our friend says, 'There's always mañana'."

His words brought Curley's laughing black eyes back with sudden clarity. Jean's spirits seemed to lift again from their after-excitement drop. "There's always mañana," she smiled back at Steve as she followed the lanky Tanner out into the warm Mexican night.

"And thanks again!" Steve's voice called after her.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

The "AAFSAT" is just beginning to be referred to in the news columns. Without loss of time we may as well begin trying to learn what institution this particular collection of initials stands for.

Initialization is an editor's way of compacting the troublesome long names of many of our governmental, commercial and other large organizations into short space for convenience in headwriting and reading. The system has reached a point where it verges on abbreviating the Christian religion as the "CR," leaving the reader to guess what is being mentioned.

Many of these contractions gradually have become adequately recognized. In the course of years we have grown to accept the "GAR" as meaning the Grand Army of the Republic, the "A F of L" as meaning the American Federation of Labor, the "CIO" as signifying the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and today nobody needs to be told that the "UMW" stands for the United Mine Workers of America.

It is like the initials "BC"—Before Christ. We are so accustomed to such initializations that we pretty nearly understand them better than we do the full names that they are representative of. Of late, though, initialization has gone cuckoo.

The war developed it up to the nth power. Creation of government commissions, administrations and offices progressed at such a rate that, initialized, you can't keep track of them—the differences between the "OPA," the "OWI," the "MPC" and oodles more of them.

For instance, the other day I encountered half a column of journalistic comment relative to the activities of the "SSB" "OA and SI" "SSB" (Social Security Board) was clear enough, but the "and" in the sub setup puzzled me in to an investigation revealing that the latter is the "SSB's" old age and survivors insurance bureau. Leaving the "B" for bureau, off from the "OA and SI" was what confused me.

Now for the "AAFSAT." It seems that this translates into the Army Air Forces School of Applied Tactics.

We have had an Army and a Navy department, pretty independent of one another. Their functions did not automatically mix to any extent. Now they do mix. Aviation mixed them.

In fact, it has become somewhat predominant over either or both of them. Well, the "AAFSAT's" function is to effect a merger. With Aviation in a majority of the three.

Before this war got fairly started aviation was considered an Army and a Navy adjunct—each. To date it is reckoned that THEY are aviation branches, with the flying command as the main thing.

They are due to be subordinated to it as a couple of collateral arms.

Combining them on that basis is rather difficult, however, that is the purpose of the "AAFSAT." It is to be done, to a certain extent, by degree.

Nevertheless, it is agreed by experts that the business of war is transformed. The Navy already is being rebuilt. It is to consist of transportation craft—plane carriers largely. Land fighters are to be available for the occupancy of terrain already under control from overhead.

The idea is that we need, not two or three departments but a single department of the whole thing. The "AAFSAT" is to be it.

Brig. Gen. Hume Peabody summarizes: "Sea, air and ground co-ordination—of the over-all command."

In short, the "AAFSAT" is to be a new department. Army and Navy cabinetships are to snuff out—gradually. They are to become mere undersecretariats.

The War department will be one unit, with the aviatorial boss as supreme chief.

Business and Professional Women Hear Cpl. Hicks of WAAC at Thursday Meeting

The May dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held at the First Presbyterian Church Thursday evening at six-thirty o'clock under the direction of the Health Committee. Miss Adah Rechenbach, Miss Norma Flee, Miss Minnie Graves and Miss Kay Williams had made most delightful plans.

A patriotic theme was used, with the tables placed to form a "V" for Victory, and were decorated with vases of purple iris from which white spirea and verbenas trailed the center of the table, adding a most attractive touch.

The Marguerite Class served the dinner was of delicious seasonal viands. Singing was enjoyed between the courses.

After the call to order, Miss Carolyn Clouser gave the secretary's report and Miss Thelma Runyan reported the treasury had purchased another War Bond during the recent drive.

The finance chairman, Miss Frances White, announced the June dinner would be held at the Dayton Power and Light recreation room and also told plans for enlarging the club's recreation funds.

Dr. Ruth Teeters, reporting for the legislation committee, asked that consideration be given to the three mill levy for the schools to be on the ballot in June.

Public affairs chairman, Miss Helen King, took the quarterly report of War Bonds and Stamps purchased by the members.

The president, Miss Helen Slavens, read the ballot presented by the Ohio Federation and to be voted on at the War Conference to be held in Toledo, May 21, 22 and 23 at which conference their five delegates and one alternate will cast their vote.

Miss Ada Rechenbach, chairman of the health committee, introduced Miss Juanita Purcell who sang two lovely songs, greatly enjoyed by everyone. Miss Rechenbach also introduced the speaker, Corporal Agnes Hicks, of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. Cpl. Hicks told of the positions the women are doing for the army—more efficiently than men because most of the women have had training as clerical workers.

She spoke briefly about the requirements for entry into the service and about the rules of army life. Cpl. Hicks stressed the real job the WAAC's are doing—contrary to reports erroneously circulated. After the club had expressed their appreciation to Miss Purcell and Cpl. Hicks, the meeting was adjourned.

In compliment to Miss Eleanor Horne, bride-elect of May 25th, Mrs. Walter Patton entertained with a lovely pre-nuptial party Thursday evening at her attractive home on Briar Avenue.

The affair was confined to sixteen members of the bride's intimate coterie, and was a most delightfully planned evening party.

Early summer flowers of every kind were gracefully arranged at points of vantage throughout the home, and formed a lovely background for the honor guest, who sweetly greeted her friends in a becoming summer frock of red and white floral print.

The dining table and two small tables seated the guests for the tempting dessert course and were beautifully appointed in bridal suggestions. Lace doilies and a complete crystal service were used, with a large crystal watergarden filled with lilies-of-the-valley and white columbine centering the table. Tall white tapers in crystal holders were pretty notes and lighted the table. The small tables were duplicated in the decorations.

The dessert course, suggestive of a bridal motif, was as delicious as well as pretty, and the delightful hour was prolonged in its gaiety and pleasure.

CHANGE OF TIME MAY COME HERE LATER IN YEAR

Columbus Change Brings
More Sentiment for Former Time

Will Washington C. H. go back on the Eastern Standard War
Time in the near future?

This is the question being asked as more of the surrounding cities are switching back to "war time" following the action of Columbus and some of the other cities which have decided they want fast time.

Xenia is now considering return to the old time, and apparently the city commission is in favor of the switch.

Circleville is also considering the change, and sentiment in Washington C. H. is again beginning to shift toward fast time, according to some observers.

It will be recalled that the Washington C. H. Council voted to stay on war time, and after the Court House clock was turned to slow time, and pressure was brought by some of the business houses that wanted the slow time, council switched to slow, or Ohio time.

In the meantime a great number of citizens are still following war time because the industries or other business with which they are connected is observing war time, and will continue to do so.

The title of her essay was "United We Win." She will receive second prize and a sil-

This is considered an outstanding honor with so many entries. Virginia Ann was judged first in the county in the essay contest sponsored by the State Mutual Insurance Company, less than a year ago.

She is the daughter of Mr.

always been outstanding student in both Cherry Hill and Washington C. H. High School

famous swing band leader, has been sentenced to three months, less one day, and fined $500 on conviction of a narcotics misdemeanor in San Francisco. A more serious charge of possessing marihuana has been continued until June 8. Krupa has given his band

HELP IS NEEDED FROM WOMEN AT DRESSINGS UNIT

New Supply of Materials
For Surgical Bandages
Received Here

An urgent plea is being made by the surgical dressing unit for women to do this patriotic work during the afternoons daily.

Mrs. Martha Braun, chairman, who has worked untiringly and devoted her time as the leader, has announced that a new supply of material has been received, and which the Red Cross has been asked to complete immediately.

"It is with deep regret that I must state," said Mrs. Braun,
"there have been very poor turn-outs for this work." She also went on to say there were the few "dependables," some days only four and five appearing.
"Of course many are working in war plants and other positions at this time, but there are still those who are not occupied by small children or positions," she declared.

arming gear at the tip of its high-explosive warhead which explodes on impact.

WAACS NOW 60,000 STRONG IN NATION

Recruiter Visits This City
Each Friday

There are now 60,000 WAACS enrolled in war service in America, and the number is being increased as rapidly as possible because of the need of women to take positions to release men for the fighting fronts and other vital war work.

The WAACS have an authorized strength of 150,000 and young women throughout the nation are being solicited to join the forces as soon as possible.

Corporal Agnes Hicks, of the Columbus branch, visits the Post Office here each Friday from 11:30 A. M. to 1:30 P. M. to recruit women for the WAACS.

Vitamin C is believed to be effective in treating and preventing heat prostration.

RURAL LIFE SUNDAY IS TO BE OBSERVED

Granges of County Make Plans for Event

It has become an established custom during the past few years for Granges to observe Rural Life Sunday by some special service appropriate to the occasion, or by attending as a group, the worship service of some church in the community.

Fayette and Selden Granges, whose membership covers the territory around Washington
C. H., have been invited by the pastor, Dr. George B. Parkin, to attend a Rural Life Service at Grace Methodist Church, Sunday morning at 10:30 A. M.

The officers of these granges are very anxious that their members make a special effort to be present at this service.

The name "Africa" is derived from the Awriga tribesmen.

LEGIONNAIRES PLAN PURCHASE OF MOOSE HALL

Would Make Ideal Home For Paul H. Hughey Post of Legion

Paul H. Hughey Post of the American Legion, which has long been recognized as one of the most energetic Posts in the state, has obtained a 60 day option on the Moose Hall, North Fayette Street, with indications that within the next week or 10 day the option will be closed and the building purchased as a home for the Legionnaires.

The property, originally built as the Smead Heating Plant, but never used, was purchased by the Knights of Pythias Lodge, and after being remodeled and used for many years, became the property of the Washington Savings Bank by reason of a mortgage held, and it is now owned by the trustees of the Liquidating Trust of the Savings Bank.

For a number of years it has been occupied by the Moose Lodge.

Officials of the Paul H. Hughey Post said Friday that present indications are that financial arrangements can be made to close the deal within a short time, and that members of the Post generally are enthusiastic over the prospect of having a permanent home that is ideal.

The building has two large assembly halls, with several smaller rooms on each floor, as well as a large basement.

It is one of the best constructed buildings in the city, with foundation walls that are two feet in thickness.

Possibilities of the building as a home are being studied, to make the building an ideal home for the Legionnaires.

Since it was organized the Legion has occupied quarters in Memorial Hall building.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

No More Brass

On land or at sea our fighting men do their many chores by the sound of a bugle. All sorts of complimentary epithets are used to designate the bugler, but nobody has yet been able to provide a satisfactory substitute for a bugle although recordings are used at some permanent bases.

Aboard ship the men fall in at the order of "Pipe muster." On land the bugler sounds "Assembly!" But no matter where the bugle is used thousands upon thousands of them must be bought and paid for out of the money we are investing in War Bonds.

HELL WEEK ENDS FOR 20 BOYS AT HI-Y CEREMONY

Initiation Ritual Is Held Outdoors Following Climax To Rough Stuff

"Hell Week" ended for 20 Washington C. H. High School boys Thursday night when the annual initiation and induction ceremonies for the WHS Hi-Y Club were held at Hook's Cottage on the Greenfield Pike.

With most of the regular members of the club, these neophytes were on hand about 5:30 P. M. when they began to take orders from the old members. After a meal of hot dogs, baked beans, potato chips, ice cream and cake, the boys were then given an informal initiation which lasted about an hour. Most of this part of the fun was done while the neophytes were blindfolded.

Following this, the formal induction ceremony was held by candle light beneath the big trees on the banks of Paint Creek. Don Harper, the president of the club, administered the pledge and J. J. Horst, the club advisor, spoke a few words of welcome.

Other members of the faculty present for the initiation were Jerry Kissell, George Miraben, A. B. Murray, W. F. Rettig, Paul Fitzwater, A. F. McCann and G. B. Vance.

The new members taken into the club last night are: Delbert Brandenburg, Charles Baker, Walter Burnett, Bill Curry, Bill Carson, Jim Dellinger, Albert Johnson, Maynard Marine, Hal Summers, Mac Whitfield, George
